“ I'm sorry to read of Jeff's passing. He was always a very nice guy at the bowling alley where I worked. Always a kind word for everyone. Prayers for the family.

“ I am writing this for my grandma and Jeff's mother in-law, LaVerna Bryant.

Jeff was always good to my husband and me. He used to drive me to the doctor for migraine shots and then back home and upstairs to bed, even when my foot was broken. He drove us to the store and anywhere we needed to go. He even tried to help my husband practice for a driving test. He brought me and Brenda coffee when I stayed with them, and helped look out for me after my stroke in 2004. I loved him and will miss him very much.

“ Being Jeff's only sister-in-law, I think he thought I was kind of goofy sometimes, especially with all my idiosyncrasies, like being scared to go through tunnels and such. He was always willing to do what he could for me, though. I remember when our cousin Nancy passed away, and I had to leave the service early to go to work. He offered to take me. I kept saying, as he drove like I was in labor or something, "It's okay, I don't have to get there that fast!" He said, "Just don't want you to be late." Another time, when we were having our annual garage sale for school clothes at your house, I started feeling nauseated. He said, "Come on, you can go in our bedroom and lie down." It was a waterbed, however, so, as soon as I laid down, I felt like I was on the high seas! That made him laugh. I always thought, as others have commented, that he was a very hard worker and a good provider. I wish I would have let him know that. I also didn't know we had something in common, a dislike for country music. Glad we can remember the funny good times. Hope you know how very much I care about all of you.

Love and prayers,

“ Our love goes out to Brenda and family. Although I didn't know Jeff well I do know Mike loved him a great deal. I found this picture among Mike's things and wanted to share it with you. They were friends for a long time. May the Lord comfort your hearts during this time of grief and transition.

“ Jeff was one of the funniest people I ever knew. He was a good uncle who taught how to bowl, play horse and many card games, plus lots of movie trivia. I have so many memories of growing up around him, like how always took my cousins, brother, and me to the Pork Festival parade while our moms ran a garage sale. He will be greatly missed.

“ Jeff & I had a lot of fun singing and playing music at the Full Gospel Temple. We enjoyed talking about the Lord and His great salvation. Jeff was a great encouragement to me.
